

Service Oriented Architecture Document (SOA)

What does a document SOA?

SOA, Service Oriented Architecture (Service Oriented), is the newest standard used in architectures and development of systems for performing alignment of Information Technology (IT) with strategies organizational models for modeling, automating and monitor business processes.

Firstly, the user must register and login as a customer or owner.

If the user logs in as a customer, they will be redirected to the customers home screen and can receive recommendations and find restaurants.

If the user logs in as owner, they will be redirected to the restaurant registration screen and then to the owners home screen.
